It's not too late to join the Slack revolution!

Have you been a Slack slacker?

What Slack is again?

Slack is an online messaging app that SCORE Maine has been using for a few years now. It is a place to have conversations with other volunteers and to share information on breaking topics. Since the shutdown, the SCORE Maine Slack has been heating up, but there are still some folks who haven't joined the party. Are you one of them?

You might be wary of another program to learn, but here are just a few reasons that Slack is must for all mentors:

Gang's All Here: More and more lead mentors and SMEs are spending time on Slack. Whether you have a question that you're not sure who to ask, want to poll the group for an opinion, or are in need of a quick co-mentor recommendation, Slack is an easy one-stop-shop.

Channel Surfing: Slack has channels just like a TV that help keep conversations and informational resources organized. You can hit up the #general channel for everyday questions, the #engage channel for tech support and hot tips on SCORE's new CRM system, or #lendingopportunities and #covid19resources for all the most up-to-date client resources.

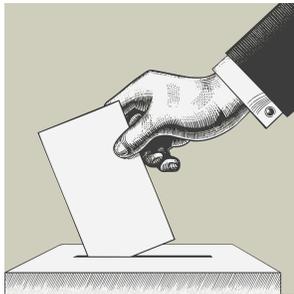

Flying Direct: Don't feel like logging into Gmail to ask a simple question? Slack lets you tag users with the @ symbol (just like on Facebook) to get their attention on a post, or you can send private chats to individuals or groups.

Fun Stuff: Slack is more than just a work resource! You can catch up with friends and see how off-duty mentors are spending their time in the #keepingintouch channel or show your appreciation for great posts with fun emojis. 🤗👏🏆

At the heart of it, Slack is a tool that helps us stay connected when we can't be together. And the more volunteers that join in, the better a resource it becomes. We hope to see you there! 😊
