5 Engage homepage hacks to save your sanity

Engage is here and there's no turning back! But if you're feeling a little oversaturated with information, these 5 quick homepage tips will make your transition to the new system a whole lot easier.

1. Give your old CORE bookmarks the boot

Delete those old CORE sign-in links and bookmark the new direct link to Engage instead. <https://score.force.com/s/>. Click the "Sign in with Google" button and select your SCORE email account from the list when you're ready to log in. So easy!

2. SEARCH feature fun

Our favorite new feature! Easily search for both clients and volunteers just by typing their names into the white search bar at the top of the Engage home screen. Use the "Refine By" filters on the left-hand side to narrow down or sort your search results.

3. Find your way HOME

It's easy to get lost when you're learning a new system, but just click the handy "Home" link (it's on the far left of the blue navigation ribbon at the top of the site) and it will quickly bring you back safely to the homepage.

4. Sorting magic

Seeking a specific client or session? You can expand the "My Sessions" list on the center of your homepage just by clicking on "View All." From the full list you can sort by name, date, and mentoring type and easily find exactly what you're looking for.

5. Easy peasy email access

You asked for it, and you got it! Click that "SCORE Email" link (two down from "Home" in the blue navigation ribbon) and your Gmail inbox will pop right up in a separate window.

Still have questions?

You'll be surprised how many answers you can find in the official Engage FAQ. But if you're still coming up short, Slack or email our Engage captains: Kelsey Munksgaard, Whit Ford, or Linda Diou for technical support!

The suggestion box is open!

We're always looking for new ideas for trainings, workshops, recruiting, and general ways to make the organization a better, happier, and better-run place. Tell us what's on your mind!
